

Published based on Harley Davidson Sells 2nd Bike To Woman

Harley Davidson Sells 2nd Bike To Woman

Just a few days ago, Harley Davidson sold its very first motorcycle to a woman in India and now has managed to sell its second. The second woman to own the U.S. automaker's motorcycle is Kasthuri Deodhar, a 33-year old architect from Hyderabad. The Iron 883 was gifted by her husband and costs Rs. 6.5 lakhs (ex-showroom). However, the Iron 883 will be used for the weekend with the Hyundai i10 doing daily duties for the biking enthusiast. Could we soon have woman specific models from Harley Davidson?

"I am sure many more ladies would love to ride a Harley. I really liked when so many people stared at me while I was riding the bike. We used to have a Yamaha Rajdoot 350 and before that we had (Bajaj) Eliminator and now the Iron, the best that one can ask for," Kasthuri Deodhar said.

You can also find this article published on Harley Davidson Sells 2nd Bike To Woman, and on the tag pages Harley-Davidson, News.