

Published based on Honda Bikes With ABS

Honda Bikes With ABS

Honda recently announced their 2009 range of Honda Motorcycles and the award winning CBR1000RR Fireblade doesn't have any major change, but the change that it does have is optional ABS. Having ABS on a bike really helps and riders have found their lap times improving with the same.

The CBR600RR also get ABS as an option and better mid range torque. Honda is not the first bike manufacturer to give ABS on a motorbike, BMW has done the same long time back. The 2009 line up will also get some crazy colours from yester years.

You can also find this article published on Honda Bikes With ABS, and on the tag pages Honda CBR.