TVS Motor At 2012 Auto Expo, The Usual

The TVS Motor hall at the 2012 Auto Expo was disappointing. People have been waiting for an all new Apache but got nothing new to see at the stand, except the Apache RTR 250 RX. The 250 RX is a off-roader which uses a 250cc engine (so TVS has the engine but not the will to put it in the normal Apache). Clearly a motorcycle which could give the Hero Impulse some competition, the Apache 250 RX is a transroader which is not slated for launch anytime soon. The other bike which caught the eyes of many was the Qube electric scooter. This was showcased at the previous Auto Expo too but the latest avatar of the Qube looks more production friendly than the earlier version. TVS, when will you launch the Apache 250, please! The company has also showcased its complete line-up of 2-wheelers at the Expo.
