TVS Motors is planning to introduce a bike at the lower end of the motorcycle market. The company whose cheapest bike costs Rs. 36,000/- is planning to introduce a entry level motorcycle, which would cost less than Rs. 30,000/-. Earlier Hero Honda had declared to be in process of introducing the Nano of bikes but there has been no progress in that direction yet. The bike is still in the initial stages and won't be launched until 2012. TVS plans to offer good features in the bike as it looks to offer value for money to its customers.
