Fiat India launched the Linea in January and is now preparing to launch the Grande Punto on the 4th of June, 2009. The Grande Punto was launched in the European markets in 2005 and pulled Fiat out from bankruptcy. The Grande Punto is one of the few cars to have got 5 Stars in EURO NCAP test, the upcoming Maruti Ritz managed to get 4 stars. Dealer trainings and product demonstration for the Indian Grande Punto have already started. The first made in India Grande Punto manufactured at Ranajangaon plant will roll out today.

Just like the Linea, the Grande Punto will come in three variants - Active, Dynamic and Emotion. The Emotion variant will also come with the optional Emotion Pack which will have Fiat's Blue & Me with steering mounted controls, Alloy Wheels, Front Airbags. The Active variant will come with the 1.2 Litre Petrol engine while the higher end variants Dynamic and Emotion will come with Linea's 1.4 Litre petrol engine. The diesel engine will be the award winning 1.3 litre Multijet without VGT and 75bhp of power on tap, same as the Swift.
