Honda India has announced its plans for the world premiere of their small concept car at the 10th Auto Expo to be held in New Delhi starting from 5th January, 2010. The new small sized vehicle which Honda is currently developing especially for India and other emerging nations will be Honda's first attempt in the volume segment. Honda will also exhibit the CR-Z Concept, a concept model for a new hybrid model, which was unveiled for the first time at the Tokyo Motor Show in October 2009.

With the booth concept of Inspired by Dynamism - Truly Honda by Nature, Honda intends to express its relentless dynamism to create cutting edge technologies and its commitment to protect the environment for future generations. Honda will personify Human Dynamism in the form of the much loved, humanoid Robot, the ASIMO. Besides enthralling the audiences at the Expo with its ability to walk forward and backward, climb stairs, the ASIMO will also show its advanced mobility capabilities through running in a circular pattern.

The special display zone named Design Corner will feature a glimpse of the elements involved in designing a car from scratch. This corner will also have contests for visitors where they would be asked to design futuristic cars of their choice. Adding glamour and spunk to the Honda booth will be the The Jazz Corner which will showcase Mugen fitted Honda Jazz in trendy colors. An exclusive Engine section will feature the advances made by Honda in the engine technology realizing both superior power and low fuel consumption.
