

Published based on Old Honda Civic vs New Honda Civic

Old Honda Civic vs New Honda Civic

Honda has already launched the new Civic in many parts of the world but we are not particularly impressed. Honda has decided to downgrade the looks of the popular sedan by making it look more like the City. We will get the new Civic next year and when the City gets a diesel motor, the Civic too will get one. Engine options will remain largely unchanged at launch and the new Civic will be powered by the same 1.8 liter VTEC motor at launch. Obviously there are quite a few changes to the new Civic underneath with better dynamics and handling. However when it comes to the styling, we think the current generation which is on sale in India, looks much better than the incoming model.

You can also find this article published on Old Honda Civic vs New Honda Civic, and on the tag pages Honda Civic.