

Published based on Honda To Launch Jazz 1.5 In 2010

Honda To Launch Jazz 1.5 In 2010

Honda recognises that a lot of potential customers for the Jazz might want more than a puny 1.2-litre engine under the hood. Considering that the Honda Jazz shares its platform with the City, Honda is considering slotting the 1.5-litre 110bhp engine from the City under the Jazz's bonnet but not before 2010. This engine would transform the Jazz's performance, but will add an estimated Rs. 70,000/- to the price.

Honda is also considering offering an automatic transmission with the 1.5-litre powerplant. With the automatic transmission option, the Jazz could be dearer by over Rs. 1 lakh. However, Honda feels there will be takers even at this price point.

Source - ACI

You can also find this article published on Honda To Launch Jazz 1.5 In 2010, and on the tag pages Honda Jazz.