

Published based on Hyundai Launches Sonata Transform

Hyundai Launches Sonata Transform

Hyundai Motor India Ltd has launched an upgraded version of the Sonata priced between Rs 13.9 lac and Rs 15.9 lac as it looks to enhance its position in the bigger car segment. The new 'Sonata Transform' will be available in 2.4 litre petrol engine priced at Rs 13.9 lakh and 2.0 litre diesel engine with two options priced at Rs 14.89 lakh (for manual transmission) and Rs 15.9 lakh (for automatic transmission). The 2.4 litre petrol motor now delivers 175bhp instead of 165 on the earlier car. The 2.0 litre diesel now delivers 150bhp, up 8bhp from the older model.

"It is our endeavour to constantly upgrade our products. With the new Sonata we are looking to enhance our position in the luxury sedan segment," HMIL Managing Director H S Lheem said.

The Sonata Transform gets a number of detailed exterior improvements and some major design changes in the interiors. Among the bodywork enhancements are the chrome radiator grille, wider front bumper and air dam, larger headlamp clusters, slimmer body side moldings and the newly designed 5 spoke 16 inch alloy wheels. The Interiors get wood treatment along with Blue LED illumination and a upgraded audio system, audio controls on steering wheel, AUX/USB i-Pod Input & Power Outlet and back up sensors.

This is a Hyundai Sonata, not a Honda Accord, i know they look quite alike now, don't they?

You can also find this article published on Hyundai Launches Sonata Transform, and on the tag pages Hyundai Sonata.