The suspense continues and Lamborghini has released a fourth consecutive image of the mystery 4 door supercar. The headlamp is horizontal, unlike the Gallardo and Murciélago. It also has projectors. There is a scoop on the hood behind the headlamp which is for breathing purposes for this front engined supercar which is most likely powered by a Audi powerplant.

We honestly don't like the headlamps much and feel this car will look quite ugly and even if turns out to be good looking, it certainly wont be as good looking as the Aston Martin Rapide.
