

Published based on Suzuki Recalls 10,000 Altos In Europe

Suzuki Recalls 10,000 Altos In Europe

Suzuki is recalling close to 10,000 units of the Alto in Europe. The recall pertains to automatic transmission variants only (thus no recall for the A-Star in India) due to a faulty transmission system. The AT variant accounts for 10% of total of over one lakh units of Alto that Suzuki sold in Europe last year. The Alto is produced at Maruti's Manesar plant and is exported to Europe since January last year. The company had recently undertaken a global recall of one lakh A-Stars to rectify faulty fuel pump gasket.

You can also find this article published on Suzuki Recalls 10,000 Altos In Europe, and on the tag pages Maruti A-Star.