

Published based on Maruti Swift DZire Goes Into Flames

Maruti Swift DZire Goes Into Flames

If you think Tata Nano is the only car which ignites, think again. Today morning a Maruti Swift DZire caught fire in Mumbai. The car was just three months old, when it ignited due to engine overheating at Vikhroli highway. Thankfully no one was injured but the car was gutted down completely due to the fire. The driver was coming from Aurangabad towards Mumbai. Now there can be various reasons for the fire, but till further evidences are not revealed, we cannot analyze why this happened. Hopefully this is a one off and not an inherent problem with the DZire, which hasn't caught any fire till before this. Maruti Suzuki was unable to respond on this issue as they are busy dozing off bigger fires in Manesar.

You can also find this article published on Maruti Swift DZire Goes Into Flames, and on the tag pages Maruti Swift DZire.