

Published based on Next Gen Renault Clio Headed To India

Next Gen Renault Clio Headed To India

The strategy of having a small car in a car manufacturer's portfolio in India is more of a necessity than anything else and Renault is no different. The French automaker will make its entry into the small car space with the next-generation Clio by 2011. The next-generation Clio will be based on sister concern Nissan's V platform. The V platform is also used by the India-bound Micra. Both the Clio and Micra are set to be produced at the firm's Chennai facility.

You can also find this article published on Next Gen Renault Clio Headed To India, and on the tag pages Renault Clio.