2011 Toyota Corolla Altis Facelift Spied

Toyota has been extensively testing the 2011 Corolla Altis. The company will launch the Corolla Altis facelift soon, which now features a revised front bumper (with inverted air intake and new shape fog lamps), new side indicators, new tail light with different reflectors, wider chrome lip on the boot and aluminum inserts on the steering wheel. Spotted in Mangalore and Bidadi, the 2011 Toyota Corolla Altis is all set to get a 1.6 liter petrol motor to rival the Honda City and Volkswagen Vento headon. This is probably the reason why Toyota has been extensively testing the car before launching it.
