Volkswagen has come out with a special edition of the Polo in Austria. Known as the Polo Sky, the special edition boasts of many features which can make it quite a hit in the European countries. To start with, the special edition features a big panoramic glass sunroof. Other extra things like the LED daytime running lights, 'Climatronic' climate control, rain sensing wipers, 15-inch 'Riverside' alloy wheels, 'Pepper Glass Metallic' center console finish and a unique 'Livon' upholstery feature on the Polo Sky.

The Polo Sky is going to get a host of engine options starting with a 1.2-liter 68 BHP unit. Moving up the ladder, you also can also get a 1.4-liter 84 BHP unit, 1.2-liter 104 bhp TSI unit and the 1.6-liter 105 bhp TDi unit. It is priced at € 17,880 for the lesser-powered 1.2, rising to € 22,480 for the 105 BHP 1.6 TDi with 7-speed DSG gearbox. The pricing is not too high considering the loads of features it is coming packed with. Will this special edition foray into the Indian markets as Volkswagen looks at increasing sales amidst hyper competition?
