

Published based on Volvo To Launch XC60 In September

Volvo To Launch XC60 In September

The Volvo XC60 will be launched in India by September. The Volvo XC60 is the younger sibling of the already selling Volvo XC90. The XC60 will be available with same inline five-pot diesel and straight 6-cylinder petrol engines which power the XC90 and S80. The XC60 will power the front wheels and will compete with the BMW X3 and Audi Q5. The diesel engine is mated to a six-speed manual gearbox. The XC60 also previews a lot of new features, including what Volvo likes to call the 'floating console'. The centre console has the climate control buttons embedded in it, while the space behind the console is hollow and can be used for storage.

You can also find this article published on Volvo To Launch XC60 In September, and on the tag pages Volvo XC60.