

Published based on The Fast and Furious 5 In The Works

The Fast and Furious 5 In The Works

The Fast and Furious 4 is way better than the Tokyo Drift. However The Fast and Furious 5 is in the works with the film's two-leading stars, Vin Diesel and Paul Walker. Universal Pictures has given the go ahead for a fifth installment of the series.

"This was supposed to be it. There wasn't supposed to be the open-ended closing like there was," Paul Walker who plays the role of Brian O'Connor told MYfm's Valentine. "When they started talking about making the fourth one, I was like, man, I don't really have a choice now, because if I don't do it I know I'm gonna be pissing people off, because this is the opportunity to come back and make the first true sequel," said Walker. "But without question, with the way things opened up, Vin and I will be coming back, we're making a fifth one, and we're going to Brazil, that's it," he added.

There is no news when the Fast and Furious 5 will release but expect to see it somewhere in mid-2010 at the earliest.

You can also find this article published on The Fast and Furious 5 In The Works, and on the tag pages Movies.